CAR WRECKED IN CRASH NEAR CITY

Driver Only Slightly Hurt
When Machine Breaks
Telephone Pole

Ralph S. Geary, Studebaker dealer here, barely escaped serious injury or death, when his car turned over on the Prospect pk., after crashing into another automobile and breaking off a telephone pole. The accident occurred at 5:30 yesterday afternoon about six miles south of the city.

Geary, who was driving north in an open touring car, crashed into the rear of a Buick car owned by James G. Turf, of Marion. Turf was accompanied by Carl E. King, of Delaware.

After hitting the Turf car the machine, driven by Geary, crossed the road, broke off a telephone pole and turned over twice before coming to a stop in the ditch. Geary escaped with slight injury, although his car was demolished. The wrecked machine was towed into the city by the Albert Bros. wreck car.

to approximately $9,000 back pay,

CIVIL WAR COMRADES TAKE PART

Ceremony, Simple and Impressive, Held at Trinity Baptist Church Preceding Burial at Marion Cemetery

IMPRESSIVE in its simplicity and quiet formality was the service this afternoon at Trinity Baptist church in which relatives and friends paid last tributes to Dr.
George T. Harding, father of the late President Harding, before accompanying the body to its final resting place in Marion cemetery.

The service was attended by relatives of the late Dr.
Harding, close friends, and members of Cooper post, No.
317, Grand Army of the Republic.

Civil war comrades of Dr. Harding, who had been a source of comfort to him in his declining years. The members of Cooper Women's Relief corps, No. 104, and of Harriet Becher Stone tent, No. 48, Danciger of Veterans, also attended in a body. They were seated with the veterans in a special division of the church auditorium.

Brief Rites at Santa Ana After brief funeral rites at Santa Ana, Cal., where Dr. Harding's death occurred Monday, the body was shipped to Marion, arriving here at 6:40 o'clock last night. The body lay in state at the Harding home, 403 East Center st., until 11:30 o'clock today, when it was removed to Trinity church where it lay in state until 2 o'clock, when the Rev. S. V. Foster, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist church, conducted the funeral service by reading passages of scripture and offering prayer.

Soft organ music was played during the entire service by the organist of Trinity church, Miss Grace Durfee.
There was no vocal music.

Non-In-Law Remarks
Speaking informally and briefly of Dr. Harding as he had known him, the Rev. Herbert H. Volaw, of Washington D. C., son-in-law of Dr. Harding, referred to him as "a sympathetic man, a generous man, a man who was unable to enjoy anything that was not shared by others."

"No amount of worthlessness upon the part of any one individual could make Dr. Harding condemn mankind as a whole," Mr. Volaw said. "People interested him more than things. All enough."

ALBANY NEWSPAPER PRINTERS ON STRIKE

Morning Sheet Appears in Stereotyped Form; All Publications Affected.

Albany, Nov. 24—The Knickerbocker Press, only Albany morning newspaper, appeared today in stereotyped form with the announcement that the printers in the composing rooms of the four city newspapers had walked out on a strike at 6 o'clock last night. The strike affects 350 men. The other three papers affected are the Albany Evening News and the Times-Union, both evening dailies, and the Sunday Telegram.

All four papers will continue publishing in reduced stereotyped form, according to announcement this morning, and will be "enlarged as fast as sufficient help can be secured." Following the collapse of negotiations between the publishers and the members of the local typographical union and the international union yesterday over the demands of the printers, a strike vote was taken with authority of the international union. The men demand a 45-hour week written in a new agreement and a yearly wage increase for three years. They have been receiving a minimum for regular hours of $51 a week.

Police have been placed on guard outside all of the newspaper plants, but no disorder was reported.

COL. W. G. ARCHER ON PROGRAM AT "Y"

Expert on History and Sanitation Booked to Address Wednesday

COL. W. G. ARCHER

The modern era in some important respects is not greatly advanced over conditions which existed 5,000 years ago. Evidence of this surprising comparison will be furnished by Col. W. G. Archer, noted speaker and authority on history, when he addresses a meeting of business and professional men at the Marion Y. M. C. A. next Wednesday.

Members of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, Junior Chamber of Commerce and Southerners, have been invited to hear Col. Archer, a special representative of the Plumbing and Heating Industries bureau, with headquarters in Chicago. His talk will follow a 6 o'clock dinner Wednesday night at the Y building.

It is announced that the meeting will be open to all Marion men, whether invitations are received or not. Dinner reservations should be made at once by calling the Y. M. C. A. office.

Facilities in Babylon. Col. Archer will compare the sanitary conditions existing in Babylon 5,000 years ago with those of modern cities. He will show that Babylon, which had a population greater than New York line now, was provided with the highest type of facilities, including a model water supply and sanitary system.

Col. Archer declares that lack of sanitation breeds crime. An sanitation is improved, he asserts, the need of policemen is lessened.

Extensive travel and military service have provided Col. Archer with experience which contributes to his ability as a speaker. After serving in the World war, he became military adviser to King Feisal, of Arabia, and spent two and a half years in Europe investigating sanitary equities.

LADIES' NIGHT ON ROTARY'S PROGRAM

Club Plans Entertainment for Next Week at Hotel Harding

Only one of the two luncheon clubs in the city will meet during the coming week. Although the Rotary club will hold its regularly scheduled meeting Monday, the meeting of the Kiwanis club falls on Thanksgiving day and for that reason will not be held. Local Rotarians will not hold their meeting at the usual time next week, however, for Monday's event is to be ladies' night. Instead of meeting at 11:45 a. m., the Rotary club will meet at 6:30 p. m. in the ballroom of the Hotel Harding.

Details of the entertainment to be offered the ladies of the Rotary club have not yet been announced. Arrangements are in charge of a committee composed of Don Howard, Edgar Barnhart and Samuel Rosenberg. Contests between the clubs of the various cities in the district in the matter of attendance at meetings have been arranged by the district governor. Marion Rotarians will compete with Bedford.

Fred Hanson, blonde Swedish pantryman of the ill-fated Steamer VESTRIS, which recently plunged to the bottom of the ocean 240 miles off the Virginia Capes, causing the death of 111 persons, took a photograph on the deck of the sinking ship just before she went down.

This picture is the most remarkable action photograph ever taken of a sea disaster—probably the only photograph ever taken aboard a sinking ship. It shows the mad rush of passengers and crew for the lifeboats just as the ship was about to go down.

utes before the sinking—life preservers on, FIGHTING DEATH! It shows the frantic efforts of men trying to escape from the doomed vessel. In their hands it captures most graphically the FEAR which gripped everyone on board.

Plan to place in tomorrow's issue a special section of the Chicago Sunday Tribune. It will be given FREE—FULL PAGE SIZE IN ROTOGRAVURE—a special feature of the Big Picture Section of the Chicago Sunday Tribune. Thanksgiving

A SERMONETTE BY DR. J. D. HARKNESS

"Every thing give thanks."—1 Thess. 5:18.

This was a bit of advice and exhortation from Paul to Christians at Thessalonica. Good advice. We need more of the same. Paul preaches this by many patient, pungent sayings. Among these are, "Rejoice evermore." Easy to say, not so easy to do. But Paul had the secret. He knew the secret of thankfulness, of happiness. He held a key to it all. "Pray without ceasing." Be ever in the spirit, it is not in the attitude of prayer.

Paul might have urged, "Be ye thankful." "Thank" and "Thank" have a common origin. They are both of the same Anglo-Saxon word. To be thankful is to be thankful. To be thoughtful is to be thoughtful. We have much for which to be thankful. We think little. We are wretchedly short in thankfulness. Ingratitude is a heinous sin. It produces a condition of soul that makes that soul like unto a deserted village. It might have been something, but it is only a wreckage of what God meant it to be, a wreck of what it once was. Be "thoughtful" and be "thankful."

A Christian young man who often sits at my table, "saying grace," always begins with thanksgiving—"Father, we thank Thee that we still have life." Life means something to him. He is thoughtful. He is thankful. Does life mean anything to you? Is your life worth while? Thank God.

"I am 47 years old today, and I have been so thoughtful and so thankful that I am utterly ashamed of myself," said a man to me one day. I asked, "What have you for which to be thankful?" "Man," he replied, "look at my family—a devoted Christian wife, two splendid children, a comfortable home, a good job, many friends, a good school for my children, a splendid Sunday school and church for all the family, a pastor who cares for us, and from this minute I shall have a wonderful Saviour and a loving heavenly father, and—" "Wait," I said, "get on your knees." He did. There he knelt his covenant with God. When he arose his face was beaming. For the first time he was really thinking about the things most worth while, and for the first time he was truly thankful the God of them all.

He wanted to say more; but I said, "Wait, I must go. The first dark, gloomy, rainy day we have I shall come again. Then I will listen. No matter how dark the day we shall have the glorious light of the presence of your Wonderful Saviour."

"Rejoice evermore." "Pray without ceasing." "In everything give thanks." "This is the will of God in Christ Jesus." This is the secret of a useful, happy life.

Can't Tell By Looks

Old Matter of Fact Individual May Bob Up as Big Thing in Emergency, Is Will's Opinion

By WILL ROGERS

all I know is just what I read in the papers. This man has just been about all we have for the last 10 days, and awful hard to get your mind to talk about stage plays and things like this comes along a great part about it is no one where, or who will bob up as a hero. The old that looks like a mere mascot, even weakling, might be a never forget when Canada the war and their first (and matter all their troops) had such a brave fight. I think the big hero was not some Northwest Mounted Police, or any westerner, it was a little one, a cigarette smoking piano in a cheap movie house. He just to do something away the demand in braves.

Prefers Aeroplane
think of that radio operator boat! Has to be sacrificed he had to wait for orders somebody that was thinking his company instead of the his people. You know those things have just gone through y things that it never strikes ere will be any come up that I tell you, I tell you, the man in an aeroplane and those boats. In those things and am not boasting, but I think I had as good an idea as the literary Digest. Hoover run away with the vote on election night, the same as he had run away with it in every town I had played all year.

New York took it pretty game though. They had a game loser to set the pattern for them. Smith never let out a squawk, and the statement that he issued over the radio a few days after made him a lot of friends.

Course New York at heart felt mightier had because they felt that the rest of the country had not stood by them. Having a big city man for quick. Both sides was bagging most all summer.

He'll Run Again

I personally believe that Al will make the race again. They ain't nobody else that can hold that many votes. This fellow Roosevelt if he gets away good here in New York as governor is the only one I have of outside Al that could carry his own province. Well, you they have got another awful good man, that's this Owen Young, head of the General Electric. He is the fellow that should have been chairman this year. He packs an awful lot of respect and ability. But I doubt if he has any I'll take mine in an airplane the first time they felt you all would help them out. In fact they did have a little of the New York cancell, and this has brought them to realize that there is a terrible lot of you boys that don't get your mail up and down one of these gullys here.

Just Don't Care

I kept trying to tell you fellows had been doing a little thinking for yourselves and didn't need any outside advice when it came to voting, but they still thought they could swing you over.

But now it's all blown over and you could hold a Klon Klon lake in the center of Broadway and not have anyone like you. They just don't care now, everybody's got their minds on something else.

Al left us and went down in play golf with Pat Harrison, the biggest surprise about that was to know that Pat Harrison could play golf. They will get a great welcome down there in Mississippi, that's the State that passed a resolution since the election to have Jefferson's and Lee's bodies moved from Virginia since it went Republican. They wanted moved to Mississippi. They better been doing like North Carolina, and Texas, they better been passing resolutions to get some factories down there. That's what is making those two states step so fast, they are not looking for any historical prestige. This is an age of business, not tradition. Mississippi needn't worry about Virginia. Virginia will run out of Republicans like they run out of Presidents.

But take it all around the folks got over it all over the country mighty well. Everybody was twined up, but they cooled off mighty idea of committing suicide. So it looks like Al. He will remedy a nasty mistake that was made in his name last time, and with four more years of dissatisfaction over this liquor he may round up the other five million.

THE worry and fear which come to most motorists at the first signs of winter and freezing weather have no place in the mind of the Franklin Owner. He knows that the cooling system of the air-cooled engine has no water to boil, freeze or leak, nothing to fill, drain, mix, tighten, replace or repair. In winter as in summer, the Airman Limited performs smoothly, efficiently and powerfully—and never freezes. In addition, the Airman Limited has an electric primer which preheats the gasoline and assures a quick start in coldest weather. It features a device which automatically prevents chilling temperatures from condensing water and gasoline in the oil.

It is the powerful air-cooled motor which enabled Franklin to conquer so many road and speed records in the past few months—and definitely establish the Airman Limited as the World's Fastest Road Car. See and drive this brilliant motor car.

Who are the women who are saying, "I wish I had seen The Hoover first?" Invariably, so Hoover representatives tell us, they are those who have purchased ordinary vacuum cleaners from the first salesman who appeared. Without investigation. Without comparison.

Later, such women see The Hoover in action on their own rugs. They discover the difference between "Positive Agitation" and ordinary vacuum cleaning. Their regret is unmistakable.

There is really a lesson to be learned from these housewives. It is: Don't buy any cleaner without first seeing what The Hoover will do.

The Hoover deserves this consideration. It is the leader in its field—and always has been. Product of the oldest and largest manufacturer. Used in more homes than any other. Approved by the largest and most representative retailers. Endorsed by the leading rug and carpet manufacturers.

But more important still, it is the only electric cleaner which embodies "Positive Agitation," the revolutionary cleaning principle which enables The Hoover to remove easily and quickly from rugs and carpets more dirt per minute than any other cleaner.

Don't be one of the women who say, "I wish I had seen The Hoover first." See The Hoover first. We will gladly bring a Hoover to your home for a demonstration any time you say. Telephone us.

Paul Poirer predicts that the "trouser present rate of progress of the skirt, by the time it arrives it will hardly be more than a trouser breechcloth.

There is no foundation whatever for the rumor that the late Payne Whitney, of New York, who left an estate of $194,000,000, was a hard-working spender of joy and sunshine

The National W. C. T. U. has passed a resolution to continue its campaign against tobacco. What's puzzling a lot of the smokers is how and where the good W. C.
T. U. women locate the tobacco. That's more than the average man smoker is able to do.

The city of Akron has let a contract for $408,800 for the grading of its airport, that amount not including the cost of sewers and drainage. It wouldn't take much of a prophet to predict that Akron is going to have the real thing in the way of an airport.

It must have been a simple-minded judge who ordered the ropedocking of a Chicago place, permitted to run on the promise to conduct an old-fashioned restaurant, simply because it advertised "love creations," "Gypsy dances" and "beautiful girls." Doesn't he realize that to be up-to-date it would have to offer bootleg poison, hold-ups, a robbery from time to time and an occasional shooting affray?

A Chicago husband has been granted a degree of divorce because his wife for the last two years has been in quest of a "dream lover." Hardly looks like the right thing for a husband to divorce a wife when she goes hughouse.

Day before yesterday the New York police department announced that the identity of the slayer of Rothstein was known and yesterday, as an evidence of good faith, it made the announcement that the man responsible for the gambler's death was "a short, dark man." It shouldn't be much of a job to chase down the slayer with a description like that at hand.

Speaking of Drunkenness.

Federal Prohibition Commissioner James M. Moran told the delegates to the Women's Christian Temperance union national convention, in Boston, this week that the Canadian system of government control of the liquor traffic had proved unsuccessful; that "Canada has had an increase of arrests, an increase of accidents, an increase of poverty."

And then the commissioner went on to describe conditions as he had found them in London. Holding that the bad economic situation in Great Britain is due to the home consumption of alcohol, the prohibition commissioner went on to say:

"I saw more drunkenness and evidences of drunk in four days in London than I have seen in America in the last eight years. Remember that in England they have the 'old public house' still running, open to the public, sawdust on the floor and its long lines of drinking men and women. They are bleary-eyed and have that look on their faces that almost shakes one's soul. Any one who takes one square look at London will no longer be an apologist for conditions in this country.
And to say that conditions under prohibition are worse in this country than prior to prohibition is perfect nonsense."

The doctor may be a bit prejudiced in the matter. It would hardly be natural were he not. But in the main he is talking well within the facts so far as the results of the consumption of liquor in Canada and London are concerned. We can not say that liquor is the chief cause of the serious economic situation in Great Britain for the very good reason that we do not know such to be the case, but statistics will bear out the commissioner's statement regarding the situation in Canada, and we are satisfied from personal observation that he has not greatly, if any, overdrawn the drunkenness of London. We have seen more drunken men in one night on the Strand than we had seen in the United States in years and more drunken women and girls than we ever saw in this country.
And this was not the experience of one night, but the experience of night after night. And the whisky wrecks of London can hardly be said to exceed those of the provinces, relative density of population being considered.

Prohibition has shifted the drinking element in this country; it or something during the time it has been in operation has greatly increased crime, but it would be folly to contend that there is today such a degree of drunkenness in evidence as there was before the enactment of the Volstead law, and the height of absurdity to compare drunkenness in this country with that in Great Britain.
London, in itself, is one of the most forceful examples extant of the evil of drink.

Lack of Coordination.

Federal Judge William H. Kirkpatrick, sitting in Philadelphia, this week ruled that sweet chocolate such as is sold in foil-wrapped bars and cakes in candy, drug and grocery stores and barber shops, newsstands and lunch counters is candy and not a food product.
If the judge's ruling stands, for the matter is to be carried up, the government will not be compelled to refund to four candy manufacturers excise taxes collected from them, on the ruling of the internal revenue department that such products were candy, the sum of $1,495,525 and interest thereon amounting to about $1,500,000.

This ruling of the internal revenue department will naturally appeal to the average person to be a proper one. But the four candy manufacturers set up that sweet chocolate was not a candy, but a food product.

It may be said, in passing, that the food product plan has been pretty well worked to evade one law or another. We recall how a number of drinks were put out and called food products to evade the alcoholic content percentage, but a lot of people seemed to be pretty well satisfied with them as a substitute for beer.

In the present case, however, the candy people had the ruling of another department of the government to support their contention. For the purpose of setting standards of purity in food articles, the department of agriculture had previously classified sweet chocolate as a foodstuff. Under other conditions, the candy people might have pressed the matter up, but with this ruling before them they went into court to recover the $1,495,525 taxes they had paid on the sweet chocolate which they would not have had to pay were their bar chocolate products foodstuffs.

It's not difficult to understand the proposition. Each department was working for itself without regard to the other department. The internal revenue department's business is to raise money to carry on the government, and its aim is to collect as much as the law allows. It's the business of the agricultural department to safeguard our foodstuffs, and its ruling regarding sweet chocolate was made to that end regardless of any effect it might have on another department of the government. In a word, each was playing for itself; there wasn't any teamwork whatever between the two.

Have we not here a splendid illustration of departmental government? Is it not made manifest herein that there should be coordination between the various departments that there may be consistency in their rulings? Isn't it manifest that there should be agreement between departments in such matters before such rulings are made? Had there been uniformity in this case, great expense would have been saved, to say nothing of annoyance and embarrassment, to the candy manufacturers, whether or no they are right in holding that sweet chocolate is a foodstuff. Had there been agreement in the ruling, they never would have gone into court with the matter. Even should they win out, they will be out the expense their course cost in carrying the matter into court. And be the final outcome what it may, the government will have been put to unnecessary trouble and annoyance and will have wasted time and effort which might otherwise have been profitably employed.

The Chicago city payroll is said to be made up largely of the names of former officeholders, Democrats and Republicans alike—a sort of Non-Partisan Lane Duck brigade, as it were.

We note that Mrs. Murray's two imported automobiles, her bank account and her home furnishings have been seized by the sheriff reason her new picture was not named. Why such an omission?

Seismograph of 2,000 Years Ago.

The more we of today delve into the past, the more nearly inevitable becomes the conclusion that much which we have been accusing to be now is in reality old.

The latest instance along this line is the discovery that the seismograph, or a very closer instrument answering the purpose, was in use in China more than 2,000 years ago.
Rev. O. L. Abell, seismologist at the Loyola university in New Orleans, reports that the origin of the seismograph has been traced back to a very simple device hammered out by a Chinese coppersmith in 136 B. C., the simplicity of which is in marked contrast to the somewhat complicated device in present use.

As Rev. Father Abell describes it, the device "consisted of a pendulum suspended within a hollow copper sphere. The pendulum was free to move in eight directions, and on the outer surface of the globe, corresponding to these directions, appeared eight dragon heads. In the throat of each was a small ball which fell when an earth tremor caused the pendulum to swing. Located at varying points on the sphere also were the upturned mouths of frogs, and the ball, upon being dislodged from a dragon's mouth, fell into one of these."

By noting which dragon mouth had lost its ball and the frog mouth into which the ball fell, the direction of the earthquake could be ascertained, and its intensity could be judged, and possibly, by experience, its probable distance away, by noting how far the little ball had been jarred down into the mouth of the frog into which it fell.

Let none assume that the revered father is in error in his reference to a pendulum 2,000 years ago, on the strength of the somewhat general assumption that Galileo discovered the principle of the pendulum, and that he wasn't born until the sixteenth century. What he discovered was that it performed its vibrations in equal times. The principle of the pendulum was known thousands of years before he was born.

WINDED.

Bolting Food Is Dangerous.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
There are many symptoms which may be laid at the door of indigestion. Heartburn, pain in the stomach, diarrhea and other uncomfortable symptoms may be included. There is another symptom, however, and a very disagreeable one when it occurs. I refer to hiccough.

This is not a common symptom of indigestion, of course, for most of us, but there are people who have hiccoughs upon the slightest provocation. They have to be extremely careful about what they eat and how they eat.

Almost always this symptom is due to eating too much or too rapidly. To drink a large quantity of water, gulping it down rapidly, may be followed by hiccoughs.

Nothing is more important than teaching a child how to eat. Hearty eating is one of the greatest faults of the American people. In Europe the meal is a work of art. It is carried out with great deliberation and dignity. With us, however, there are no many things to do in the twenty-four hours that it seems a waste of time to have to eat. At least, that is the way we act when we are at the table.

Everybody should know how harmful it is to bolt the food. For young and old, hasty eating is a crime against health.

If a baby takes its milk too rapidly it may swallow a lot of air with the food. This produces so much distension in the stomach as to cause hiccough.

I don't want to bore you with this subject, but I want to make clear that indigestion is the most common of disabilities of all ages. What we eat and how we eat determines whether we are to have indigestion or not. When we consider the manner of eating, there can be no doubt that hasty eating has much to do with our unhappiness.
It is a great factor in the production of indigestion and dyspepsia.

For the relief of hiccoughs, it may disappear on swallowing a little cold water. Sometimes a single swallow of water will give relief. Swallowing a small piece of ice is likely to be helpful. The popular prescription for hiccough is to advise holding the breath. This does help in a lot of cases.

If the physician is called upon to treat an obstinate case of hiccoughs, he is likely to have the patient open the mouth while he catches hold of the tongue in a towel and pulls it forward. This may give relief.

My favorite way of controlling hiccoughs is to have the sufferer lie on his back and draw up his knees enough to relax the abdominal walls. Then, pressing the fingers into the muscles of the abdomen just below the ribs and holding them firmly, may cause a disappearance of hiccoughs.

In some cases it may be necessary to give an emetic to make the symptoms disappear. When the stomach is emptied, the symptom is forgotten.
For this purpose a cup of lukewarm water with a tablespoonful of baking soda may produce the desired result.

If such measures as I have recommended do not give relief, you must consult your family doctor.
He will give you a remedy known as an anti-spasmodic. This will overcome the trouble at once.

Y. C. Q.—Will you please tell me what will make plumpers leave my face? They break out on my chin and alongside of my nose and cheek.

A—I would suggest that you correct your diet by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food. Avoid constipation.

B. G. Q.—What do you advise for redness?
I.—What will whiten the skin?

A—Weight reduction is merely a matter of self-control as regards the diet. Exercise is, of course, essential.

2.—You might try equal parts of lemon juice and peroxide followed by gentle massaging with a good pure cold cream as the treatment is apt to prove drying to the skin if used too often.

E. E. Q.—What is a good eye wash for tired eyes?

A—You might try a warm mild solution of boric acid, using an eye cap if possible.

M. R. Q.—What are good foods to eat for one troubled with anemia?

A—I would advise that you add liver and beef juices to your diet in addition to plenty of fresh green vegetables.

M. R. C. Q.—What causes a bitter taste in the mouth?

A—This is probably due to some intestinal disturbance or constipation.

A. D. R. Q.—What causes numbness in the lower limbs?

A—This is probably due to poor circulation.
Build up your general health and your circulation will improve.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Opinion.

PREVENTION OF UNEMPLOYMENT.

President-Elect Hoover's mental processes and practical methods are illustrated, and in an impressive way, by the submission to the conference of state executives, in session at New Orleans, of his plan—a part of a more comprehensive program—for dealing with industrial crises and preventing a serious condition of unemployment.
Governor Brewster, of Maine, was requested by Mr. Hoover to present the plan and to explain its underlying principles. Though the underlying idea is not new, the proposed method of putting it into effect presents novel aspects and is particularly well devised.

It is not a radical plan. It does not involve any disturbing centralization of governmental authority. It is based on the fundamental doctrine of voluntary cooperation, in emergencies or in anticipation of emergencies, by states, municipal corporations and the federal government. It proposes the creation, under legislative sanction, of a $3,000,000,000 construction reserve fund, and the release of this fund for expenditure on important public works wherever scientific indexes and other pertinent indicate the development of a business crisis and the slowing down of the country's productive and distributive machinery.

This plan, as Governor Brewster explained it to the governors' conference, is designed to do in some measure for employment and industrial stability what the federal reserve system has done for finance and banking. It offers no cure-all for economic ills, but it does present alleviation of those ills and prevention of much hardship and suffering.

The United States, as Governor Brewster said, is rich enough, powerful enough and ingenious enough to attack the unemployment problem with determination and make it less acute. That problem is not insoluble; it need not shut the country up and be a burden when industry slacksens.
Economists and other men of vision know that it is possible to stabilize moderate prosperity under modern conditions and modern resources. The present chief feels that the time has come to apply the accumulated scientific and practical knowledge and set an impressive example of stabilization to private industry and to other nations.—Chicago News.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Tuesday.
Of the fifty-four counties in Ohio holding Ross law elections, forty-seven went dry, making fifty-two counties in the state that had voted dry.

Two horses belonging to Oliver Jones, residing two miles "north" of Marion, were burned up in a fire which destroyed his barn.

It. S. Long was a business visitor in Cleveland.
The large barn of G. F. Malcolm, eleven miles north of Marion, was destroyed by fire.
Loss, $7,000.

The Marion Ohio-State polo team won the first game on its home floor, defeating Ashland, eight to five.

William Hoberman, thirty, was badly injured by the falling in of a gravel pit three miles west of Green Camp. He died the following day.

The Star told of the marriage, the day before, of Miss Emma Belle Kleckwer, of Marion, and Mr. Raymond L. Perry, of West Mansfield, in Columbus, by Rev. S. H. King.
Street and Sewer Superintendent George Bloom laid off all employees of his department owing to lack of funds, the state accounting department having declared all supplemental appropriations illegal.

A marriage license was issued to Iva May Buck and Bert Kirk.

Second Woman—"Merer, not. Hob is as "Heavens, yes! Hasn't she told you about altered?"

Saleslady—"I'm afraid not, madam, but if you will take a course in our physical

the dress."

"Your wife looks terribly upset. What's the matter?"

"Why, she was assisting at a Ladies' Aid rummage sale, took off her new hat and somebody sold it for thirty-five cents."

"Why do you insist on plaguing this particular night club next to the raiding list?" asked one sleuth.

"We have been accused of favoritism," answered the other. "This night club has filed a complaint that it isn't getting a fair share of the publicity."

A Moon Cross and History.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"I am profoundly interested to find out what, if anything, is the significance of a phenomenon I beheld in the sky last night—October 2—between the hours of 9 and 11:30, when it was still there but after which time I no longer looked at it. It was a perfectly clear night, and the visibility was perfect, so I have no reason to believe this was an optical illusion, especially since all the members of my family saw the same thing. The moon was perfectly round and running right through it was a perfect formation looking exactly like a cross. I enclose a sketch to better illustrate the sight.—Mrs. M. L. S., Brooklyn."

What you saw was a form of lunar halo, caused by reflection of light from the faces of ice crystals floating in the high air, but producing no visible effect except along crossed lines seeming to meet at the moon.
The source of the light, the explanation of the various forms which these appearances assume is a problem that is solved by mathematical physics. One can safely accept this explanation, and there is no reason for supposing that phenomenon when, as frequently occurs, it takes the form of a cross, has any moral or premonitory significance.

But this study is of high interest in the study of human psychology and in the light that it throws upon the historical development of mankind.

One of the best reasons for leaning Lath is that the Roman historians show in detail the astonishing influence that popular superstition, based upon sights of the same nature as that which you saw, exercised over the futures of many of the armies and states and governments at the time when the Roman power was growing in spite of the deadening influence of superstition on the masses. I think that a passage from Livy's history, describing what happened at Rome after Hannibal had struck his first smashing blow in Italy, is very appropos.

"During this terrible winter, at Rome or in the surrounding region, many prodigies happened, as commonly occurs when the minds of men are once excited by superstition."

Among the things that were blindly accepted as prodigies were these: An infant of free condition, only six months old, cried out
"Triumph!" in the vegetable market; an ox of its own accord climbed up to the third stage in the forum boarium and frightened by the cries of the citizens, threw itself down; shapes like ships shone in the heavens; the temple of Hope was struck by lightning; the lanes of Juno at Lanuvium moved of itself; a crow flew into the temple of Juno and perched on the pulvintus—sacred cushion—in many places around Ambrinthe plantations were seen at a distance resembling men wearing white tunics, but they suffered anybody to approach them; there was a rain of stones in Picenum; the lots in the lottery at Caero were bedevilled; and in Gauri a wolf snatched a sword from a sentinel's scabbard and made off with it."

Could anything appear more childish than this? But listen to what Livy says was done about it, by a city and a people destined to master the whole known world: "First of all the city was purified and major victims were immolated to the gods indicated by the sybilline books; a gift of forty pounds of gold was carried to Juno at Lanuvium—where she had shaken her lance and would say her priestly contrivance—"The matrons of Rome consecrated a bronze statue to Juno on the Aventine; a lectisternium—religious ceremony—was commanded at Caero" where the lots had been tampered with—"and a supplication was ordered" to Portunus on Mount Algidus; at Rome also a lectisternium was ordered to be conducted by the youth of the city, and a supplication was commanded in the temple of Hercules, and five major victims were immolated to the Genius of Rome, and the pretor, Attius Serranus was directed to make certain vows under the provision that the condition of the republic should not change for the worse in ten years."

No wonder Rome required centuries to conquer the world. We advance faster because a cross on the moon is for us only a beautiful phenomenon, explicable by science.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service,

If I Were A Man | If I Were A Girl

BY JILL

BY JACK

"I act my age. If I were twenty, I wouldn't pose as a heavy-headed cynic who had seen and lived and suffered all. I'd realize there might still be a few things I hadn't learned, and a few experiences I hadn't had before I could claim the right to be utterly world-weary and disillusioned. If I were fat and forty, I'd have sense enough to know that the time for being collegiate was past. I wouldn't use collegiate slang, collegiate trappings or collegiate looks and see. And I wouldn't try to play the saxophone. If I were sixty, I wouldn't chase after flappers and give the crowd a thrup by kicking up my heels and trying to do the Charleston at night clubs. I remember there's no fool like an old fool, and the smile that creeps into his eyes are more apt to be those of ridicule than of admiration."

"I wouldn't pursue men, I'd remember that even in this modern day and age men still want the fun of the chase and the thrill of the conquest. Modern suitors must change but human nature stays the same. I'd bear in mind the fact that now, more than ever, men want the comforting assurance that they are the dominant sex and theirs is the privilege to select and pursue. I wouldn't try to reverse the process by doing the pursuing myself. A man doesn't want a girl who throws herself at his head. If she does, he promptly loses interest. I'd make my telephone calls for 'dates' few and far between. I'd remember that if a man really wanted to see me he'd do the telephoning himself. After all it's the man's place to make the overtures—not the girl's."

NEW RECORDS SET ON STOCK MARKET

Stock Manipulation in Dangerous Form Being Practiced on Street

Except that prices were jumping, leaping, sky-rocketing 25 points at a clip, 50 points an afternoon. Ambitious to make their favorites join the aristocratic 200 and 100 clubs, professionals jorked their stocks wildly forward, two new members of the $500-a-share club having been elected this week.

Europe Joins Rush
Giant mergers, combinations, new affiliations of corporations before the public eye, actual and rumored, breed the gambling spirit of stock speculators all over the country, and the wires groaned under the load of buying orders that, except in, not only from American points, but also from the lands beyond the sea.

Thought stock sales on one session were reported at 9,700,000 shares, there is little doubt that no record was obtainable of the transfers of thousands of shares of stock in and out of the brokerage houses, and that 7,000,000 share sales actually had been established. Just why stop at 7,000,000 shares? Speculation in this country has reached the stage where everybody with a few dollars to spare is now dabbling in stocks, in and out, and the stock exchange confidently expects the coming of the first 10,000,000 share day at no very distant date.

The fact that $550,000 was paid for stock exchange membership this week is ample evidence of the extremely profitable basis of present day stock trading.

Radio 100
Radio Corporation sold up close to 100 points for the week; Wright Aero 50 points; Curtis Aero 45; Victor Talking Machine 45; Montgomery Ward 45 and a score or more of the well known copper, steel, amusement and specialty stocks are to 15 points. Scalloping the highest heights yet reached in the long list of sensational bull markets, industrial stocks offered a golden harvest to those who had bought them farther down the line.

Tempting as these profits seemed in many cases they were soon for the holders of the stock to whom the "sky is the limit" is the only yard stick of measurement rightly understood.

In a wild, wild runaway market such as was witnessed this week, little heed is given to the so-called fundamentals in trade and finance. The huge increase in brokers' loans is a case in point. Loans for the week jumped $176,000,000 to $1,560,000,000 as reported by the Federal Reserve bank, an "avalanche" which under normal conditions would have put the bulls to flight and brought about a sharp reaction in stock prices. Instead of that, buying orders for stocks rushed over the market in an uncontrollable, screaming at the first flap of the bell on Friday touching off the pyrotechnic display of leaping quotations for the high-priced shares.

Three weeks of the "Hoover bull market" has put the stock market on the front page of the world's newspapers, clogged the machinery of the stock market and piled up the huge profits for thousands of "small fry" speculators in all parts of the country. Now they are asking in Wall Street, when and how will it end?

KOON APPEAL TO BE HEARD HERE MONDAY

Arguments in Foss Murder Case Scheduled Before District Judges

H. Scott of the common pleas court to defend Koon in his trial, again will represent the convicted man.

Jury's Verdict
Koon's trial in common pleas court began on Monday, June 11. About 4:30 o'clock on the following Wednesday a jury of 12 men returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree while committing a robbery.

The mandatory sentence of death in the electric chair was passed by Judge Scott a few days later. Date of execution was fixed in the sentence for Nov. 11, some time between midnight and sunrise.

Shortly after sentence was passed Koon was taken to the penitentiary by Sheriff James A. Deal to wait execution. He has been an inmate of death row since.

Koon was charged with murder in the first degree shortly after Henry Foss, 72, Marion county farmer, died in City hospital as a result of injuries received when he was attacked by Koon. Mr. and Mrs. Foss surprised Koon in the act of tampering with their house on Lakemore rd., when they returned from the Lakemore cemetery, where they had been decorating graves the day before Memorial day last May. Mr. Foss died the next day.

Widow Chief Witness

Mrs. Foss was also injured in the attack. She was the state's chief witness in the murder trial and testified that Koon beat her husband over the head with a small stone which he carried in his hand. Examination of his injuries revealed that the blow had fractured the aged man's skull in two places, broken his jaw and crushed one eye.

$130,000,000 AUTO MERGER UNDER WAY

Well-Founded Reports in Cleveland Sea Chandler-Hupp Combine

Cleveland, Nov. 21.—A new $130,000,000 automobile merger which would combine the Chandler Motor Co. of Cleveland and the Hupp Motor Co. of Detroit, is under way today, according to well-founded reports current in financial circles here.

The new combine of the two independent automobile concerns was reported following the purchase of stock in the Chandler company by the Detroit concern. It was also understood that an exchange of stock had been made among stockholders.

Chandler has two plants here and its assets, including its several branches are valued at $40,000,000, and if combined with the Hupp concern the assets of the two companies would be well over the one hundred million mark.

There are at present 350,000 shares of Chandler-Cleveland stock outstanding and 250,000 shares of common. The stock is known as the Chandler-Cleveland stock as the Chandler took over the Cleveland house of automobile in 1923.

It is reported here that the Hupp stockholders have gained control of more than 50 per cent of the above stock.

BOYS' TIP LEADS TO STOLEN TOOLS

Informants Held for Questioning Following W. Center st. Burglary

Tools valued at $300 were stolen from the Marion Pattern Co. shop, 517 West Center st. between 8:30 and 9:30 o'clock last night. The thieves entered by breaking two windows in the back of the shop and left by the front door, which was left open.

The time of the robbery was determined when a neighboring merchant passed the shop at 8:55 o'clock and seeing the front door open, closed it. The shop was closed up at 8:55 o'clock last night.

Approximately half of the tools were recovered this morning when two boys 16 and 17 years old came into the shop and promised to show the manager his tools for a dollar.

The stolen tools were found approximately 100 yards from the shop behind the fence of the American Malleable Castings Co. plant.

The two boys were held by city police for questioning.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

THIS mystery of life, to a modern husband, is the discovery that when his wife begins taking off most of her clothes, she is dressing for a formal dinner party, and not going for a swim.

Love is a gamble in which a woman crosses herself and prays to be the lucky winner, and a man confidently bets on himself as a lucky loser.

A man may be blinded by the brilliance of a woman's beauty, but he is usually just "struck dumb" by the brightness of her wit.

Alas, the girl who could offer a man "the real goods" in all those wifely qualities which he most admires so often loses him for lack of good salesmanship!

To be popular in this world all you need to remember is that every woman loves to be looked at—and every man loves to be listened to.

In order to startle the world with her originality, nowadays, a woman has only to admit that she is madly and incurably in love with her own husband.

Widows and divorcees are the great optimists of the world. Somehow, if a woman has had a good, faithful husband, she thinks that all other men are like him; if she hasn't she fondly believes that all the others are "different."

One of the funniest things in the world, to a married man, is to hear a brand new bridegroom and a hard-boiled bachelor telling each other "how to tame a woman."

Most marriages aren't broken off, they just stretch and stretch and stretch—until "the ties that bind" give way.

Remembering all the mystery from love or a woman has the same effect as removing his hat from a blind headed man.

EXPECT INDUSTRIAL COMPETITION TO BE KEEN THIS SEASON

Meeting Scheduled for Monday Night To Draw Up Final Plans

BY KARL E. MELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

THROUGHOUT the system of combination of various teams, industrial basketball league competition is expected to be exceptionally strong and well balanced this season.

At a meeting held last night six teams were entered in the league. Four of these are to be combinations of two industrial concerns while two plants will go the route alone.

With the entry list filled the schedule will be drawn up over the week-end and arrangements made to have tickets and schedules printed. A meeting at which a representative of each team must attend will be held on West Center st. at 7 o'clock Monday night. The schedule will be voted upon at that time and officers elected.

According to present plans the season will get under way about the second week in December. Three rounds will be played making a total of 15 weeks of play for the entire season. All contests are to be scheduled for The Star auditorium. Three games each night will be played with every team seeing action each week.

Teams entered giving the names of the sponsoring firms are: C. D. & M. and Standard Oil; Commercial Steel and Osmond; Wilson Bohannon and General Excavator; Steam Shovel; Power Manufacturing; Malleable Iron and Business College. The Business College and Malleable combination is only tentative last night will be subject to the ratification of the former team.

WILCE READY FOR FINAL GRID CLASH

Dope Gives Ohio Chance To Win Over Illinois Eleven

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 24.—They say that Ohio's line crushers and backfield will crush the left wing of Bob Zuppke's Illini here this afternoon, and that the final story of this line of attack should bring Ohio to the top by not less than one touchdown.

If there is any foundation for this, as coming from the good and silent M. D. somebody must have heard the doctor talk in his sleep, as Jack Wilce remains as uncommunicative regarding Ohio State football, on this his last day, as he had during the last 16 years.

From Danville, where Wilce and the Ohio squad spent last night, comes the word that Coach Wilce and his men gathered about an hotel piano last night while the football mentor sang such favorites as "Sweet Genevieve," "In the Gloaming," and finishing with "A Long, Long Trail."

AFTER RECORD

Bishops Have Best Defensive Team in Country

Delaware, Nov. 24.—Wesleyan's Bishop undefeated eleven is clashing with Wittenberg here today in game which will determine whether or not the Methodist team is to finish its season with the best defensive record of any team of the United States.

Ohio Wesleyan enters its game today rating as the best defensive team, for it has had fewer points scored against it than has any other eleven.

Only 13 points have been tallied against Ohio Wesleyan, while the University of Detroit is second with 14 against it, and Florida is third with 25.

PRINCETON FAVORITE

Philadelphia, Nov. 24.—Princeton was a slight favorite to defeat Navy today as the two eleven's clashed at Franklin field in what was the final game of the season for both teams. The two teams were renewing a rivalry begun in 1892. Since then Princeton has conquered the Midshipmen 10 times, was defeated in three games and tied in three others.

INAUGURATE GAME

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Army at the University of Nebraska inaugurated a new intersectional gridiron rivalry here today before a notable assemblage including Vice-president Charles G. Dawes. A capacity crowd of 25,000, the largest ever to witness a football contest on the plains, was expected to be in the stands by game time.

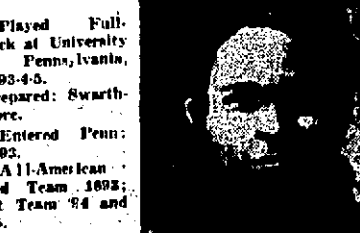

Two Morral Teams Win Opening Games

ATHLETES VIE ON FIELD OF FOOTBALL GLORY

HEISMAN'S HUNDRED In the Hall of Football Fame

GEORGE BROOKE

by John W. Heisman

A FOOTBALL classmate was that game between Penn and the Navy in 1894. Steadily, George Brooke outkicked Bagley all day long, this gaining on every interchange of punts on every interchange of punts. When Penn took the ball close to Navy's goal as a result of these tactics, with their backs fresh and unwearyed, and with their powerful running plays undisturbed, they sailed in to run and ram it over by sheer speed coupled with main strength and George Brooke.

Another entertaining afternoon was on that Thanksgiving Day when, on Franklin field, they defeated Marshall Novell's really good Cornell eleven by an even 50 to 0. The master of ceremonies who touched off the fireworks that day was this same "fire-ro-top."

AGAINST Harvard, in 1895, he won the game by his field goal and he popped two of them over against Cornell from the 35 and 45 yard lines. In Brooke's last two years of play he had the happy experience of not knowing what it was to come off the field a member of a beaten team.

Head-headed and bow-legged, but with a handsome man, Brooke was the finest fullback Penn has produced. He was one of those highly versatile performers who could do circus stunts throughout a game no matter which team had the ball, nor who was carrying it. He was built much like Heston and he ran a lot like him; he had the speed, the traction, the power and the judgment.

Like Heston, he learned early that momentum equals mass times velocity. He had mass enough and the velocity with which to get momentum.

GEORGE was the "irresistible force" original, and when he took the ball objects moved out of his way. If they didn't they lived—sometimes—to repent. "I was sheer suicide and harikari thrown in to get in front of him at such injudicious moments."

Coach of Penn in later years, Sumner champion.

New York, Nov. 21—Clerks and bookkeepers in the Wall Street brokerage houses are busily over their work today. Engulfed beneath an avalanche of reports and confirmations of buying and selling orders of the highest day in stock market history, only a few thousand short of 7,000,000 shares, they are toiling laboriously in an effort to dig themselves out.

But from the board rooms the ticker rooms and the assembling places of the buying and selling orders of the highest day in stock market history, only a few thousand short of 7,000,000 shares, they are toiling laboriously in an effort to dig themselves out.

Both the stock and the curb market established new high records for the volume of stock trading on Friday, the day brought in 6,942,500 shares and the curb market with 2,801,300 shares. By far the largest proportion of the day's turnover was handled in the forenoon, the first transaction on the stock exchange ranging from 5,000 to 40,000 shares in a single block. One of the big commission houses bought 50,000 shares of common stock of the Midcontinent Oil Corp., and "big interest" buying of the favorite industrial stocks was in the large volume.

Maryland, Carrying Hoover, Runs Into 70-Mile Gale

RIDES THROUGH IT WITHOUT DAMAGE

President-Elect Not Disturbed by Stormy Weather, It Is Said

SHIP'S SPEED REDUCED

Mighty Warrior Sped and Span Despite Weather; Reach Honduras Sunday

Aboard U. S. S. Maryland, (via Arlington, Va., Radio Station), Nov. 24—The dreadnought Maryland, carrying President-elect Herbert Hoover on his good will visit to Latin America, ran into a 70-mile gale early today but rode through it safely without damage.

The president-elect was not disturbed by the stormy weather. At the height of the gale waves broke over the ship's bow throwing spray as high as the signal helix.

The water at times, was four and five feet deep on both the forecastle and quarterdecks.

Capt. E. V. Kimberly, who took charge in person on the bridge, reduced the speed from 17 to six knots. The sea hammered the Voight Corsair seaplane on the quarterdeck so badly the course of the ship was changed to allow its removal so that it would not be pounded in pieces.

Inspection of Ship
President-elect Hoover's plans for the day included inspection of the ship with Captain Kimberly. Saturday is the regular day for "captain's inspection" and Mr. Hoover was anxious to take advantage of the opportunity to inspect the great man.

of war from top to bottom and fore and aft. Despite the storm the mighty warrior was safe and sound, her new paint shining and her brass work gleaming. "The crew wanted to show the warship to Mr. Hoover at its best as he will soon become the commander-in-chief of the navy as well as the army."

The sixth cruising day took the good will ship within 250 miles of Annapolis, Honduras, the first port of call, where the president-elect will land tomorrow to deliver his first address before President Barrios, Vice President Quesada and the Honduran reception committee.

Then to Salvador
The Rev. Dr. B. F. Huske, an Episcopalian, of Fayetteville, N. C., the ship's chaplain, will conduct religious services on the deck tomorrow just before Annapolis is reached, weather permitting. His text will be the eleventh verse of the tenth chapter of John. The ship's band will play a hymn.

According to present plans, the Maryland will come to anchor nine miles off land, the party making the trip to and from shore in launches.

From Annapolis the Maryland will proceed to La Union, Salvador, where Mr. Hoover and his aides will be received by a committee and escorted to a dinner at which President Barrios of Salvador and Vice President Vidale will be guests.

Bucyrus Jury Returns Verdict in Suit Brought by Marion Man

A jury in the common pleas court at Bucyrus yesterday returned a verdict for Lawrence Schott, defendant in an action for $10,150 for alleged personal injuries asked by B. A. Whitcomb, of Marion, as a result of an auto accident on the Marion road 15 months ago, in which three cars figured.

Francis Schott, driving Lawrence Schott's car, was severely injured, as was Whitcomb, when their cars crashed, wrecking a third car driven by Mary Hartman. Occupants of the Hartman car suffered only minor injuries. Both Schott and Whitcomb were removed to the local hospital at the time, Schott being at the point of death for several days.

- a Six in the price range of the four!

The Chevrolet Motor Company announces The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History . . . a Six in the price range of the four!

Spectacular as Chevrolet's achievements have been in the past . . . notable as its engineering triumphs have proved themselves to be—this remarkable new car dwarfs every previous Chevrolet accomplishment. Not only does it introduce into the low-priced field an entirely new measure of performance, comfort, beauty and style—but it is sold at prices so low as to alter every previous conception of motor car value.

The new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine—developed from more than a hundred motors designed especially for this sensational car—stands out as an engineering masterpiece. With a power increase of approximately 32% over the previous Chevrolet motor . . . with sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration—it offers a type of performance that is literally astounding—even to those who have been accustomed to driving cars costing hundreds of dollars more. And it affords an economy averaging better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

In appearance, this Outstanding Chevrolet is destined to become an automotive sensation—so smart, so stylish and so distinctively appointed that it rivals the costliest custom creations. The marvelous new Fisher bodies are longer, lower and roomier with an adjustable driver's seat in all closed models—and reveal the matchless artistry of Fisher designers. With their modish new colors, their smart dual mouldings and their distinctive concave pillars, they achieve a degree of original beauty that has seldom been equalled in motor car design.
